

Disclaimer & Content Policy

Last Updated: September 2026

Backbenchers is an independent, student-run academic resource created to make educational materials easier for students to discover, organize, and access.

We are students helping other students. This website is intended to function as a centralized archive and reference platform and is not intended to represent any university, institution, faculty member, or academic department.

1. Independent Student Initiative

Backbenchers is not affiliated with, operated by, sponsored by, endorsed by, or officially associated with JK Lakshmipat University (JKLU), its administration, faculty, departments, or any other educational institution, unless explicitly stated otherwise.

Any references to JKLU, its courses, subjects, programs, faculty, or academic structure are provided solely for identification and organizational purposes.

The use of a university or course name on this website does not imply any official relationship, approval, or endorsement.

2. Purpose of the Website

The purpose of Backbenchers is to help students:

- Find previous-year examination papers
- Refer to quizzes and assignments
- Access student-contributed notes and study material
- Organize course-related resources in one place
- Use past academic material as a reference while preparing for courses and examinations

The website is intended to supplement, and not replace, official university resources, faculty instructions, course material, or academic communication.

Students should always refer to official university sources for current syllabi, examination schedules, assessment requirements, grading policies, and other official information.

3. Third-Party Materials

Some materials available through Backbenchers may have been created or originally distributed by third parties, including students, faculty members, educational institutions, publishers, or other copyright holders.

Backbenchers does not claim ownership of third-party materials merely because they are hosted, indexed, organized, or made accessible through this platform.

Where reasonably available, we aim to retain relevant attribution or source information.

The presence of a material on Backbenchers does not necessarily mean that Backbenchers owns, created, verified, or endorses that material.

4. Copyright

Copyright and other intellectual-property rights in third-party materials remain with their respective owners.

We do not intend to infringe the intellectual-property rights of any individual, institution, publisher, or other rights holder.

If you believe that material available through Backbenchers infringes your copyright or other applicable rights, please contact us using the Content Removal Request process described below.

We will review legitimate requests and may remove, restrict, or disable access to the relevant material where appropriate.

5. Content Removal / Takedown Requests

If you are the copyright owner, authorized representative, creator, faculty member, institution, or otherwise have legitimate grounds for requesting removal of material, please contact us.

Please provide:

1. Your name and contact information
2. Identification of the material you are referring to
3. The URL or location of the material on Backbenchers
4. Your relationship to or ownership of the material
5. The reason for your request
6. Any information that may help us verify the request

Send requests to:

rudrapalsinghshekhawat@jkl.edu.in

We will review the request and, where appropriate, remove or restrict access to the material.

For legitimate requests, we aim to respond as reasonably promptly as possible.

6. User-Contributed Content

If Backbenchers allows students or other users to upload materials, users are responsible for ensuring that they have the necessary rights or permission to share the material.

Users should not upload:

- Confidential or restricted examination material
- Personal or sensitive information belonging to another person
- Material explicitly marked confidential or not for redistribution
- Paid or copyrighted material that they do not have permission to distribute
- Private communications or documents belonging to another person
- Material that violates applicable law or institutional policies

Backbenchers reserves the right to remove or restrict access to user-contributed material where we believe it may create legal, privacy, security, or academic-integrity concerns.

7. Academic Integrity

Backbenchers is intended for learning and academic preparation.

Materials available on the platform should not be used to facilitate cheating, plagiarism, examination misconduct, or violation of university academic-integrity policies.

Users are responsible for following the academic rules and policies applicable to their institution and courses.

8. Accuracy of Information

Backbenchers is a student-maintained resource.

Although we may attempt to organize and maintain the information accurately, we do not guarantee that:

- Every document is authentic or complete
- Information contained in a document is accurate
- A previous paper represents the current examination pattern
- Notes reflect the current syllabus
- Course information remains current
- Materials are free from errors

Always verify important academic information through official sources.

9. External Links

Backbenchers may contain links to external websites or services.

We do not control or necessarily endorse the content, policies, availability, or practices of external websites.

Users should review the terms and policies of external websites before using them.

10. No Official Representation

Nothing on Backbenchers should be interpreted as:

- An official communication from JKLU or any other institution
- An official university repository
- An endorsement by university faculty or administration
- A replacement for official university systems
- A guarantee regarding examination questions, grades, academic outcomes, or course requirements

11. Changes to This Policy

We may update this Disclaimer & Content Policy from time to time as the platform evolves.

In Short

Backbenchers is built by students, for students.

Our goal is simply to make useful academic resources easier to find and access. We respect the rights of students, faculty members, authors, publishers, and institutions, and we will consider legitimate requests regarding content hosted on the platform.

Thank you for helping us keep the repository useful, responsible, and student-friendly.
